Closing date: June 27, 2013 Description: Ria knows perfectly well that her grandmother is usually ill-tempered and that she is the last person in the world to whom she would ever turn for advice and love. Ria is particularly disturbed by the miraculous tales her grandmother tells her during the evenings. In the early morning hours, Grandmother is likely to tell the story of the beautiful and fatal extravagance, the fortune-teller's daughter, whom all the monsters of the forest long for as their beloved sister. What Ria wouldn't like to know is that to get married, she will have to take the claws of the wolf that won her heart, that her husband will not be a man, but the biggest beast in the forest, that she will have to give birth to a hundred children and that her grandmother will bewitch her and steal her children to feed on them. However, Ria cannot avoid following her grandmother to the witch's cottage in the forest and to be consumed by the wolf and the witch. Ria escapes just in time, but is now the victim of an endless winter. On Grandmother's return home she lies to Ria about her daughter. The new neighbour wants to know where the girl is, and Granny thinks that the granddaughter has run away, taking the wolf with her. In reality, Ria has gone to the factory where her daughter, a former factory worker, now works. Ria hears her daughter, which is really old-fashioned clothes maker, making bajonette for the customer. But Granny gets there first. She would love to be the new headmistress. Granny takes the opportunity to punish Ria and calls the police.
